

About Us

Netpresto is a privately owned limited company Registration number 3663411. It was established in 1998 by Steve Newcombe MBCS, who has spent his whole career in the IT Industry, to provide technical Internet Services to SMEs. Our sister company PCS Professional Computer Services, established in 1986, is housed in the same premises and provides IT Security Services.

Our mission critical web, mail and domain name servers and routing equipment are located in a power resilient, safe, physically secure environment - Telehouse Data Centre in Docklands London.

Telehouse has connections to the Internet backbone that are second to none. All our equipment is remotely monitored and managed 24 hours a day.

Our office is located in the Bridges Conservation Area of Gateshead, a few minutes walk from the Sage and the Baltic. You will find us at the Gateshead end of the High Level Bridge. There is meter parking in the surrounding streets.

At Your Service

Business is fast becoming reliant on the Internet. Email has become a key communication method with customers and suppliers. Trading from a web store is now commonplace. But without an experienced in-house IT team maintaining control of such key business functions can be difficult, time consuming and frustrating.

Netpresto provides the whole range of integrated e-services: email, web site hosting, domain name management, and internet access. We operate and manage our own services so you have only one place to call when you need information or help. We work with you to establish and maintain control.

We understand the challenges you face in a way that no large ISP could ever hope to. We support your business with e-services to meet those challenges, and respond quickly and expertly to your instructions.

In the virtual world of the Internet Netpresto offers you the surety of dealing with real people, a team who know and understand this constantly evolving medium.
